There are more than 800 languages on the island nation of Papua New-Guinea. Our partner organisation runs the Ukarumpa International School in Papua New Guinea (PNG) to provide quality education to the children of its staff who are engaged in the work of Bible translation among these peoples.

The school is known as a great place to teach, has good resources, supportive parents and professional teaching staff. You will teach English-speaking children from more than 12 nations, whilst at the same time integrating a Christian world-view into your lessons. In all of this, you are supporting the eternal work of Bible translation! More info about the school here: https://ukarumpainternationalschool.org/

The need

There are about 7000 languages in active use and at least one book of Scripture exists in over 3,200 of these languages.

At least 1.5 billion people do not have the full Bible available in their first language. Over 684 million of these have the New Testament; others have portions or at least some level of work begun.

As of October 1st 2016, estimates suggest over 160 million people speaking up to 1,800 languages are understood to likely need Bible translation to begin.
